SECTION E - Course Content

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Create finished prints that incorporate historical and contemporary approaches to printmaking practices, theories, and materials.
2. Translate ideas and visual experience into images using both formal and conceptual approaches.
3. Critique finished and in-progress prints in written and oral formats.

Course Objectives

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Safely handle and maintain the printing press and other materials and equipment used in relief, monotype and intaglio printmaking.
2. Create a portfolio of finished prints that successfully demonstrates:

3. Accurate plate registration.
4. Proper use and application of printmaking inks and their modifiers.
5. Successful color selection and mixing.
6. Experiments with woodcuts, linoleum cuts, collagraph, photo-transfer prints, dry point, etching and other intaglio methods.
7. Multiple-plate prints.
8. Proper storage, handling and presentation of finished work.
9. Develop artwork that translates personal ideas into visual images using both formal and conceptual approaches.
10. Critique in-progress and finished prints utilizing relevant terminology and concepts.
11. Examine and describe historical and contemporary developments, trends, materials, and approaches in printmaking.

Course Content

1. Handling, maintenance, and appropriate use of the materials and equipment used in relief, monotype and intaglio printmaking.
2. Accurate registration of plate and paper in single and multiple-plate prints.
3. Proper use of printmaking inks and their modifiers.
4. Color selection and mixing.
5. Materials, methods and applications of:
 - a. Woodcuts.
 - b. Linoleum Cuts.
 - c. Collagraph.
 - d. Photo-transfer prints.
 - e. Dry point
 - f. Etching and
 - g. Other intaglio procedures.
6. Proper storage, handling and presentation of finished work.
7. Translating ideas and visual experience into images using both formal and conceptual approaches.
8. Group and individual critiques of both in-progress and finished prints utilizing relevant terminology and concepts.
9. Contemporary developments, critical trends, materials, and approaches in printmaking.

Methods of Instruction

Methods of Instruction

Types	Examples of learning activities
Lecture	Image and video-enhanced lectures covering core concepts, terminology, and historical development of printmaking followed by all-class or small-group discussions on the same topics.
Lab	Instructor-guided lab time to apply concepts and skills to course content through guided print making exercises. Lab time will include both one-on-one and all-group instruction.
Observation and Demonstration	Print making demonstrations covering techniques, concepts, and material applications.
Critique	Oral or written group critiques analyzing finished examples of student work related to specific course assignments. Peer discussions prior to critiques as well as more formalized critiques reinforcing student's capacity to think critically about course assignments and enhance their ability to explain the results of this analysis to other students.
Field Trips	Students in this course may view artwork in the professional contexts of a gallery or museum, an activity that helps to reinforce student understanding of historical and contemporary approaches to drawing and its relationship to their own studio work.

Methods of Evaluation

Methods of Evaluation

Types	Examples of classroom assessments
Portfolios	Each student's "course portfolio" will be made up of assignments from the semester. The portfolio will be evaluated by the instructor and student at "final critique." Generally the creativity, craftsmanship, presentation and demonstrated improvement of the portfolio as a whole will be evaluated.
Class Participation	Participation and performance in both oral and written critical analysis of work. Student participation in group, and all-class critique will be evaluated. Evaluation will include correct use of visual language and terminology, and the student's ability to give and receive constructive criticism. After an introductory lecture and review of handouts containing key formal and critical terms, students will participate in an in-progress oral group critique of their two-block woodcut assignment. Students will be assessed for participation, proper use of terminology, and relevant comments regarding basic formal and material issues. Overall performance in critiques throughout the semester will be figured into the final grade.
Projects	Student self-evaluations, peer evaluations and instructor critique will be used to evaluate each project. Class participants may be given the opportunity to improve, elements and or redo each project before the end of the term and the final review of all projects as a whole within the "course portfolio."
Homework	Completion of homework assignments, including written evaluations, reports, and critiques.

Assignments

Reading Assignments

Selected readings from text, periodicals, and instructor-generated handouts.

For example:

- 1.. Read the assigned text covering the history and materials of monotype printing.
2. Read the handout covering key formal and critical terms used in content-oriented critiques.
3. Read about a printmaking process, style, and, or a specific printmaking artist that will serve as the inspiration to prints you will create.

Writing Assignments

Written critical analysis of a completed student or professional art work.

For example:

1. Write a one-page essay analyzing the strengths and weaknesses of your first etching, keeping in mind the parameters of the assignment and related reading material.

Other Assignments

Completion of a minimum of four finished prints based on instructor-generated assignments.

For example:

1. Create a woodblock print series by producing multiple prints from the same block.
2. Produce a multi color print.
3. Create an abstract print.
4. Create a print that is influenced by a historic style of print making.
