SECTION E - Course ContentStudent Learning Outcomes

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, students will be able to:
1.	Demonstrate through explication, interpretation, and/or analysis an understanding of American literature and literary movements up through the Civil War, including the influence of canonical and non-canonical writers.
2.	Demonstrate through explication, interpretation, and/or analysis a basic understanding of the historical contexts, cultural influences, and major themes informing early American literature up through the Civil War.

Course Objectives

Upon satisfactory completion of the course, students will be able to:
1.	Demonstrate familiarity with important authors, works, genres, and themes of American Literature from its earliest expressions through the second half of the 19th century.
2.	Analyze and interpret themes found in the literature and intellectual movements of the early American period.
3.	Relate the literary works to their historical, philosophical, social, political, regional, and/or aesthetic contexts.
4.	Demonstrate understanding of appropriate academic discourse and the conventions of critical literary analysis.
5.	Demonstrate comprehension of the above through class discussion, written exams, and essays using appropriate citation form.

Course Content

1. Reading, analyzing, interpreting, and writing about American literature from its beginnings to the second half of the nineteenth century, including diverse voices from Indigenous, European, African and other cultural backgrounds.
2. A broad range of texts, including influential and significant works as well as diverse and under-represented authors and literature from various historical eras.
3. The evolution of American literary traditions, contexts, and genres.
4. Contexts of American literature: historical (e.g., Puritan, Colonial, Revolutionary, Manifest Destiny); philosophical (e.g., Great Awakening, Transcendentalism); social (e.g., Settlement, Frontier, Slavery, Reform Movement, Industrial Revolution); political (e.g., Nation building, U.S. Indian Policy, Abolition); regional; and aesthetic (e.g., Romanticism, Gothic, Regionalism, Realism)

Other	Instructors may present material in a variety of modes, including lectures, discussion, and collaborative group work. Given the rigor of the survey course, multi-media delivery of instruction, including recordings, streaming video, film, and documentaries may be used. Instruction should balance delivery of information with hands-on practice of literary analysis and argumentation. To this end, instructors may use a variety of modes, including DVDs and/or videos, document camera, and power point presentations.

Methods of EvaluationMethods of Evaluation

Types	Examples of classroom assessments
Exams/Tests	Exam regarding major figures, texts, literary movements and/or themes
Quizzes	Reading quizzes
Projects	Research
Portfolios
Essays/Papers	Academic essays as well as shorter assignments such as summaries, annotated bibliographies, reader responses/journals, explication, analysis, and in-class writing.
Oral Presentations
Other	The course grade can be based on multiple measures but should include regular writing assignments. Writing assignments may include academic essays as well as shorter assignments such as summaries, annotated bibliographies, reader responses, journals, explications, in-class writing, etc. Other methods of evaluation may include portfolios, group projects, research projects, oral presentations, exams, quizzes, and class participation.

AssignmentsReading Assignments

Students will be required to read approximately 100-200 pages of an anthology or other assigned texts per week.

For example: Read the excerpt of Maria Ruiz de Burton's The Squatter and the Don and identify how she describes American occupation of Mexican California properties.

For Example: read Red Jacket's "Religion for the White Man and the Red." Reflect on the argumentation of this oration and identify how it addresses European religious beliefs and colonialist attitudes toward indigenous spiritual practices.

For Example: Read Edgar Allen Poe's "The Cask of Amantillado" and identify his use of gothic conventions in this short story.

For Example: read "From The Wonders of the Invisible World" by Mather and "A Narrative of Captivity and Restoration" by Rowlandson. Both writers, following a Puritan pattern of thought, attribute certain worldly events to Divine Will or supernatural causes. Compare two passages from each writer and make distinctions about their thinking and writing style.

For Example: analyze how Emerson's "The American Scholar" is both a call for intellectual independence and an example of literary nationalism.

Writing Assignments

Students will write response papers, in-class and out-of-class essays, analyzing the literature and its context. Total word count for the semester should be approximately 4000 words.

For Example: Analyze Nathaniel Hawthorne's notion of sin as a "state of being" and guilt as a consequence of sin in The Scarlet Letter.

For Example: Analyze Herman Melville's use of diverse characters in Moby Dick to illustrate the plurality of the American Life.

For Example: Compare Harriet Jacobs' "Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl" to Douglass' "Narrative of a Life of Frederick Douglass" based on the following quotations: "Slavery is terrible for men; but is far more terrible for women" (Jacobs) and "You have seen how a man was made a slave; you shall see how a slave was made a man" (Douglass).

For Example: In Anne Bradstreet's poem "Upon the Burning of Our House," analyze and/or explicate the argument that, in spite of the poem's pious conclusion, the feeling of loss in stanzas four, five, and six, including the lament that God had not "sufficient for us left," reveals a faltering in Bradstreet's Puritan faith, a lack of firm belief in the conventional idea that such a calamity on earth is of little significance because riches and delights await her in heaven.

For Example: Analyze Walt Whitman's poem, Song of Myself (assigned sections only), as a culmination in the development of American identity. How does Whitman contribute to the ongoing evolution of self-reliance? Of human freedom? Of concepts of democracy? Explicate appropriate stanzas to support your ideas.
